ABOUT THE ORLANDO MAGIC

Orlando's NBA franchise since 1989, the Magic's mission is to be world champions on and off the court, delivering legendary moments every step of the way. The Magic have seen great success in a relatively short history, winning five division championships (1995, 1996, 2008, 2009, 2010) with seven 50-plus win seasons and capturing the Eastern Conference title in 1995 and 2009.

Off the court, on an annual basis, the Orlando Magic gives more than $2 million to the local community by way of sponsorships of events, donated tickets, autographed merchandise and grants. Orlando Magic community relations programs impact an estimated 75,000 kids each year, while a Magic staff-wide initiative provides more than 6,000 volunteer hours annually. In addition, over the last 26 years more than $21 million has been distributed to local nonprofit community organizations through the Orlando Magic Youth Foundation and the Orlando Magic Youth Fund, a McCormick Foundation Fund (OMYF-MFF) since 1994, which serves at-risk youth.

Ticket highlights for the Magic's 2016-17 season in the Amway Center, honored with TheStadiumBusiness Awards' 2013 Customer Experience Award and named SportsBusiness Journal's 2012 Sports Facility of the Year, include: 2,500 seats priced $20 or less, 8,000 seats priced $40 or less and 9,000 seats priced $50 or under.

For ticket information log on to OrlandoMagic.com or call 407.89.MAGIC.

ABOUT AMWAY CENTER

The Orlando Magic served as the developer of the Amway Center, which hosts major national events, concerts and family shows. Opened in the fall of 2010, the facility is owned and operated by the City of Orlando on behalf of the Central Florida community.

The Amway Center was designed to reflect the character of the community, meet the goals of the users and build on the legacy of sports and entertainment in Orlando. The building's exterior features a modern blend of glass and metal materials, along with ever-changing graphics via a monumental wall along one facade. A 180-foot tall tower serves as a beacon amid the downtown skyline. The 875,000 square foot, Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certified building features a sustainable, environmentally-friendly design and unmatched technology, including 1,100 digital monitors, the tallest high-definition video board in an NBA venue and multiple premium amenities available to all patrons in the building. Amway Center was recently honored with TheStadiumBusiness Awards' 2013 Customer Experience Award and named SportsBusiness Journal's 2012 Sports Facility of the Year.

MEDIA INFORMATION AND GUIDELINES

TO THE MEDIA

Welcome to the 28th season of Orlando Magic basketball and seventh in the Amway Center. We are very pleased to supply this publication and hope it will answer many of your questions throughout the next several months. We sincerely appreciate your interest in the Magic and will do everything possible to meet your needs throughout the course of the season. This guide will be supplemented with materials on a regular basis during the year. Again, if we can ever be of any assistance, please do not hesitate to call on us. In an effort to continue to provide a professional working environment, we have established the following guidelines for the upcoming campaign.

CREDENTIALS

Single-game media credentials can be reserved by accredited media members by calling the Communications Department at least 24 hours before a game (no exceptions) at 407.916.2532 or emailing MagicCredentials@OrlandoMagic.com. Media members covering the Magic on a regular basis will be issued season passes, but are still required to reserve seating at all games by calling or emailing the Communications Department by the deadlines mentioned above. Credentials will allow working media members entry into the arena, while also providing reserved media seating and access to both team locker rooms and the media workroom. In all cases, credentials are non-transferable and any unauthorized use will subject the bearer to ejection from the arena and forfeiture of the credential. All single-game credentials may be picked up on game days at the media entrance of the arena, located at the southwest corner of the building (South Street, event level).

MEDIA WORKROOM

The Magic media workroom is located in the southwest corner of the arena on the event level and will be opened two hours prior to game time. Admittance/space is limited to working media members with credentials only. The media workroom will remain open throughout the game and until the last working media members have finished their game-night duties. The professional intent of the media workroom is to provide a meeting and working place for writers, reporters, broadcasters and game personnel. Family members and guests of media members will not be accommodated in the media workroom. Any abuse of the media workroom and/or media privileges will result in a forfeiture of your media pass. Television monitors, telephones and work space will all be provided in the media workroom.

LOCKER ROOMS

The Magic locker room is located on the northwest corner of the event level, while the visitors' locker room is located on the southwest corner. In accordance with NBA policy, both locker rooms will be open 75 minutes prior to tip-off until 45 minutes before game time and 15 minutes after the game. Only those individuals with prominently displayed credentials will gain admittance into the locker rooms. Your cooperation and courtesy are asked in maintaining proper working atmosphere for postgame interviews.

INTERVIEWS

As stated above, pregame interviews are allowed 75 minutes prior to tip-off until 45 minutes prior to game time. Postgame interviews are conducted as follows: both the Magic head coach (in interview room) and the visiting team head coach (at opposing locker room entrance) will address media members approximately 10 minutes after the game. Your cooperation and professional courtesy are asked in maintaining a proper working atmosphere for postgame interviews.

PRACTICE/SHOOTAROUNDS

As a general rule, Orlando practices and game day shootarounds will be open to the media near the completion of each workout. In both cases, interviews with players and coaches will follow the workouts. Please go to the Magic's media website (OrlandoMagic.com/MagicPR), media-only Twitter feed (@Magic_MediaInfo) or call the Communications Department to confirm practice times and locations.

TELEVISION/RADIO

Television and radio broadcast positions are located along the scorer's table on the west sideline of the event level and on the radio deck, which is located on the west side of the club level. The Magic Communications Department will be happy to arrange statisticians for visiting radio and television broadcasters. If statisticians are needed, please contact the Magic Communications Department at least 24 hours prior to game time. Once arrangements are made for statisticians, the individual must be paid whether or not they are used. The Communications Department will be happy to arrange pregame, halftime, and postgame interviews according to NBA guidelines. Please make arrangements for those interviews as early as possible.

MEDIA SEATING

Reserved media seating has been designated in the media loge (northwest corner of arena on club level), as well as on the visitors' baseline and in the press box (west sideline on press level). All seats are reserved and marked with placecards for each individual media member. To avoid embarrassment, individuals are asked to sit in their pre-assigned seats. Seating charts are also posted in the media workroom and throughout the building. Electrical outlets and telephones are placed at press seats for your convenience. If a media member is in need of an individual phone, please contact the Communications Department for assistance. Statistics will be distributed to the press seating locations periodically.

PHOTOGRAPHERS/VIDEOGRAPHERS

Limited space is available on each baseline for both still photographers and television cameramen. All are required to pick up photo passes upon entering the arena. Photographers without photo passes will not be allowed on the arena floor. Freelance photographers will not be credentialed without a certificate of assignment from an established publication. The Magic's Local Television Courtside Video Pool allows local outlets the ability to obtain access to comparable game highlight footage for news coverage purposes. For more information, contact Dave Sirak at 407.448.3473 or Dave.Sirak@WFTV.com.

MEDIA TICKETS

A limited number of game tickets are available for media purchase on a single-game basis from the Magic Communications Department. Unfortunately, due to the small number available, all requests cannot be honored. There are limitations to the number of tickets allotted to each request, and all requests should be made no later than 5:00pm the day before a game (5:00pm Friday for a weekend game).

MEDIA PARKING

Members of the media can use their parking pass to park in the lots designated on the parking pass they receive. There are a limited number of single-game parking passes available for visiting media members upon request of the Communications Department. Satellite TV truck parking will be provided for up to four satellite trucks on the west side of Division Street. For technical assistance with TV truck and satellite truck parking and coordination, please contact Sara Rocheleau in the Magic's Broadcast Technology and Services Department at 407.916.2908.

SERVICES

A pregame media meal will be served in the media workroom in the southwest corner on the event level. Beverages are also provided at all times in the media workroom. Game notes and a limited number of media guides and game programs will be available in the media workroom before the start of the game. In addition, play-by-play sheets, halftime and quarter boxscores and postgame quotes will be available in the media workroom following the game. Complimentary fax service is also available upon request. Boxscores and play-by-play sheets will be delivered in a prompt manner to the press seating locations at the end of each quarter. Advance game notes will be delivered to the hotel of all visiting media members. In order to provide this service efficiently, we ask that you contact the Magic Communications Department if you are not staying in the designated team hotel. If there is anything else that we can do to assist in your coverage of the Magic this NBA season, please don't hesitate to ask.

AMWAY CENTER MEDIA INFO

The DeVos family purchased the Orlando Magic in September of 1991. At that time, family head Rich DeVos stated that the DeVos family is simply the team's current caretaker, making it clear that the real owners of the NBA franchise would continue to be the Central Florida community and the loyal Magic fans. Since purchasing the team, the franchise has won five division championships (Atlantic Division: 1994-95, 1995-96; Southeast Division: 2007-08, 2008-09, 2009-10), two Eastern Conference titles (1994-95, 2008-09) and had seven 50-win seasons, including a franchise-record 60 victories in 1995-96. The Magic have advanced to the playoffs 14 times during that span, while finishing with a .500 record or better in 16 of the last 24 seasons.

The acquisition and operation of the Magic is a family affair involving Rich, his wife, Helen, and their four children and spouses: Dick and Betsy DeVos, Dan and Pamella DeVos, Cheri DeVos, and Doug and Maria DeVos.

Although the senior DeVoses have an established residence in southern Florida, the family was introduced to the Central Florida community during Orlando's drive to bring major league baseball to "The City Beautiful." An ensuing relationship was formed between the DeVos family and the city of Orlando.

The baseball venture left them with a heightened interest in professional sports ownership. The 89-year-old co-founder of Amway – today a global leader in direct selling – envisioned incorporating the philosophies that made him a successful businessman with that of a solid, young NBA franchise. He understands the impact professional sports can have on the upcoming generation, and he is committed to ensuring the team provides a positive, encouraging example.

The DeVos family played a key role in helping to secure the state-of-the-art Amway Center in Orlando. The Amway Center is part of a public community venues program that also includes a new Performing Arts Center and a renovation of the Citrus Bowl Stadium. The new Amway Center opened in October 2010. In addition, the Magic also contributed $12.5 million toward construction of five community recreation centers throughout Orange County, Florida, as part of its commitment to build the new Amway Center.

From 1995-2001, RDV Sports owned and operated the Orlando Solar Bears of the International Hockey League. During their six seasons of existence, the Solar Bears captured one division title (Central Division, 1995-96), three Eastern Conference crowns (1996, 1999, 2001) and the IHL's Turner Cup championship in 2000-01. Orlando compiled an all-time regular season record of 286-162-44 (.626), the best in the league over that time frame.

From 1998-2002, the Orlando Miracle of the WNBA was part of the RDV Sports portfolio. The Miracle played in their inaugural season during the summer of 1999 and made the playoffs in 2000.

RDV Sports, named for Rich DeVos and the general partner of the Magic, has been and continues to be an active partner in the Central Florida community. In February of 1998, RDV Sports, in partnership with Florida Hospital, opened the $50 million, 365,000-square-foot RDV Sportsplex. The RDV Sportsplex is a state-of-the-art health and wellness facility, which includes a world-class health club, medical offices, restaurant, retail shops, and front office facilities for the Magic.

The DeVos family remains involved in numerous charities and community-enhancement endeavors, both in the Central Florida area and their hometown region of Grand Rapids, Michigan. The Orlando Magic Youth Fund has positively impacted more than one million children. Through private donations, fund-raising events and contributions, more than $19.8 million has been raised and distributed to non-profit organizations that support the OMYF mission statement.

FRANK VOGEL
Head Coach

Frank Vogel became the 13th head coach in Orlando Magic history on May 20, 2016.

During his five-plus seasons as a head coach with Indiana from 2011-16, Vogel, 42, guided the Pacers to the NBA Playoffs five times, two Central Division championships and two trips to the Eastern Conference Finals. He has an overall NBA regular season head coaching record of 250-181 (.580). His 250 wins are the most for a Pacers head coach in the team's NBA history.

On January 30, 2011, Vogel took over for Jim O'Brien and led Indiana to a 20-18 record and its first playoff berth in four seasons. After falling to Chicago, the team with the NBA's best regular season record, during the First Round of the playoffs, 4-1, he had his interim tag removed on July 6, 2011.

During the 2011-12 season, Vogel guided the Pacers to a 42-24 record (.636), the fifth-best record in the NBA, and finished third in voting for NBA Coach of the Year. During the playoffs, the Pacers defeated Orlando during the First Round, 4-1, before falling to eventual NBA Champion Miami in the Eastern Conference Semifinals, 4-2.

In 2012-13, Indiana went 49-32 (.605) and captured the Central Division title for the first time since 2003-04. During the postseason, the Pacers defeated Atlanta (4-2) and New York (4-2) to reach the Eastern Conference Finals, where they lost in seven games to Miami, who again went on to win the NBA title.

During the 2013-14 campaign, Indiana spent most of the regular season with the best record in the NBA. The Pacers finished with a regular season record of 56-26 (.683), won their second straight Central Division crown and was the #1 seed in the Eastern Conference during the NBA Playoffs. The 56 wins were the third-most in the franchise's NBA history. Indiana beat Atlanta (4-3) and Washington (4-2), before losing again to Miami during the Eastern Conference Finals, 4-2. Vogel and his staff also earned coaching honors for the East during the 2014 NBA All-Star Game.

After failing to make the postseason in 2014-15, mostly due to a team ravaged by injuries (including the 76 games missed by NBA All-Star Paul George), Vogel and Indiana rebounded last season and posted a 45-37 record (.549). He was named the NBA's Eastern Conference Coach of the Month for the fourth time during his career in April 2016, after the Pacers went 6-1 during the month and secured the seventh seed in the East. Indiana lost to Toronto during the First Round in a tough series that went seven games.

Vogel, who is entering his 20th season in the NBA, began his NBA career as the head video coordinator with Boston under Rick Pitino. He stayed in that role from 1997-2001, before being named an assistant coach with the Celtics under O'Brien. Vogel was also as an assistant coach under O'Brien in Philadelphia in 2004-05 and in Indiana for three-plus seasons (2007-11). He also served as an advanced scout for the Los Angeles Lakers (2005-06) and Washington (2006-07).

Vogel is a graduate of the University of Kentucky with a degree in biology. He first attended Juniata College in Huntington, Pa., where he was a three-year starter for the Division III Eagles. While at Juniata, he made a decision that changed his life. An admirer of Pitino, who was the head coach at Kentucky, Vogel wanted to learn about coaching from Pitino. He made numerous requests to get to Kentucky as a walk-on, a student manager, anything. He finally got through to Jim O'Brien, an assistant to Pitino, who saw to it that Vogel became a student manager, even though the Wildcats preferred in-state students for that job. He then transferred to Kentucky, became a student manager and played on the junior varsity team in 1996.

After graduation, Vogel's work ethic landed him the job as the University of Kentucky's video coordinator. Pitino left Kentucky to become head coach of the Boston Celtics and took Vogel with him as the head video coordinator.

As a youth, Vogel attended basketball camps and encountered an instructor who taught him if he believed in something and put his mind to it, he could accomplish anything. The instructor used spinning a basketball on his finger as an example and then spun it on a toothbrush. Vogel practiced the same trick until he, too, accomplished it and brushed his teeth with the toothbrush while spinning the basketball on the end of it. That skill earned him, as a 13-year-old, a national television appearance on "Late Night With David Letterman" in the Stupid Human Tricks segment. It was forbearer of the perseverance that has made Vogel one of the rising young stars in coaching.

Vogel and his wife, Jenifer, have two daughters, Alexa and Arianna.

10,000! On December 22, 1988, the 10,000th season ticket was sold, ending the Magic's commitment to the NBA of guaranteeing 10,000 season ticketholders by January 1, 1989. Pat Williams (above) makes the announcement of Orlando meeting its season ticket goal.

A MODERN DAY P.T. BARNUM, Pat Williams turned a dream into the Orlando Magic more than 25 years ago.

"I had been working in conjunction with Jimmy Hewitt on this idea of trying to bring a basketball team to Orlando," said Williams. "He had put everything in place with ownership, an arena, the backing of the city. He called one night, late April 1986, and I remember taking the phone call in my kitchen. Jimmy, in his unmistakable southern drawl, said, 'Bubba, we've gone about as far as we can go down here. If you come down here and spearhead it we'll go forward… If you don't, we'll pull the plug'."

Williams could feel the urgency. He knew it was decision time.

"We (Philadelphia 76ers) were getting ready for the lottery in which we had a pick and we were getting ready for the playoffs. We ended up winning the lottery and had a good playoff run which made things more confusing.

"But I knew deep within that the adventure and risk involved in trying to start up a team was really something that I had to pursue. There was a restlessness in my spirit. I needed a new adventure."

Williams took the leap of faith and resigned his position as general manager of the Philadelphia 76ers.

More than 25 magical years later, Williams has certainly lived an incredible adventure.

HALL OF FAME

On March 29, 2016, Senior Chairman Rich DeVos was inducted into the Orlando Magic Hall of Fame. He became the fourth inductee, joining team co-founder and Senior Vice President Pat Williams, the team's first-ever draft pick and current community ambassador, Nick Anderson, and perennial NBA All-Star Shaquille O'Neal.

"When we purchased the team 25 years ago our goal was to not only to be the best team we could be, but to also use the team as a platform to better the community, especially being able to reach the young people through the power of this great game," said DeVos. "This journey has certainly been a family affair and I'm touched to have been elected into the Magic Hall of Fame."

The Orlando Magic Hall of Fame will honor and celebrate the great players, coaches and executives who have had a major impact during the team's illustrious history. It will bridge the past with the future of Magic basketball, and the design will provide Magic fans an opportunity to enjoy the exhibits on game nights at the Amway Center. The exhibit is located in the Amway Center on the Terrace Level near Nutrilite Magic Fan Experience.

The inductees will be determined based on their overall on and off the court contributions to the team and organization, years of service, impact in the community and general character of the individual.

ERIE BAYHAWKS

The Orlando Magic and the Erie BayHawks of the NBA Development League are in the third year of a three-year single affiliation partnership. Orlando became the 16th NBA team to have a one-to-one affiliation with an NBA D-League team.

The partnership, also referred to as a "hybrid affiliation," was the eighth of its kind in the NBA D-League and allows an NBA team to control the NBA D-League team's basketball operations, while the existing local ownership maintains primary responsibility for the team's off-the-court business operations and community initiatives.

"We are looking forward to a mutually beneficial partnership with the BayHawks," said Orlando Magic Chief Executive Officer Alex Martins when the partnership was announced in May 2014. "We feel this hybrid relationship will further assist our efforts in regards to developing NBA talent, while providing Erie with a team they can be proud of. I would like to thank Steve Demetriou. His vision and values fit very well with ours and we are excited about this exclusive affiliation."

Entering their ninth season in the NBA Development League, the BayHawks are coming off another successful year for their team's business. Erie drew over 3,300 fans per game to the Erie Insurance Arena this past season. The BayHawks contributed over $25,000 to local charities through various donations, fundraisers and other community focused initiatives during the 2015-16 campaign. A total of 14 former BayHawks have been signed by NBA teams in their brief history and the team has competed in the D-League Playoffs three times.

The Erie BayHawks, presented by LECOM, were established in 2008 and were one of the first teams in the NBA Development League to establish a marquee partnership. The BayHawks marquee partner, the Lake Erie College of Osteopathic Medicine (LECOM), LECOM School of Dental Medicine and LECOM School of Pharmacy, offer innovative and affordable education in osteopathic medicine, dentistry and pharmacy. From campuses in Erie, Pennsylvania, Greensburg, Pennsylvania and Bradenton, Florida, LECOM provides student-centered pathways to prepare the next generation of healthcare professionals. LECOM physicians serve as the BayHawks medical staff, the team practices at the state-of-the-art LECOM Medical Fitness & Wellness Center, and together the BayHawks and LECOM promote education, health and wellness throughout Erie county.

RICH AND HELEN DEVOS COMMUNITY ENRICHMENT AWARD

Magic owners Rich and Helen DeVos established this program to honor an Orlando Magic player who dedicates his efforts beyond the basketball court to enhance the lives of others. In selecting the player each year, the anonymous committee looks at several criteria including the three "A's": Action, Attitude and Atmosphere. Specifically, that means the player's actions off the court are honorable in nature, the player displays a respectable attitude toward those he comes in contact with, and the player shies away from situations that may be negatively perceived and provides a positive environment for others through his actions. Rich and Helen donate $50,000 to the charity of the honored player's choice.

In 2016, former Orlando Magic guard Victor Oladipo was honored with the Community Enrichment Award for his efforts off the court and in the Central Florida Community.

MAGIC SEASON OF GIVING

The holidays signify a time of joy and giving. However for some, it can be a stressful time due to economic circumstances. To ease the finical burden, Orlando Magic players, coaches and staff take time out each year to spread some holiday cheer to local organizations and children in need.

THANKSGIVING OUTREACH: This past November, in what has become an annual tradition for the Magic, 135 Magic staff members gave back to the community by serving Thanksgiving breakfast to over 700 men, women and children at the Coalition for the Homeless for the 23rd consecutive year. Orlando Magic CEO Alex Martins and Magic players Elfrid Payton and C.J. Watson led the crusade of volunteers. Families also had the chance to have some fun following breakfast with a carnival featuring a live DJ, bounce houses and face painting.

HOLIDAY SHOPPING SPREE: The Orlando Magic and Pepsi partnered to bring holiday joy to 100 members of the Boys & Girls Clubs of Central Florida this past December. Each child received a $100 gift card for an exclusive shopping spree at Wal-Mart. Orlando Magic players were joined by Community Ambassadors Nick Anderson and Bo Outlaw to help the children blaze through the aisles and pick out their favorite items! Through creative initiatives such as the Pepsi Shopping Spree, the Magic and Pepsi continue to improve the lives of children within the community.

MAGIC BIG GIVE: The Magic continued to give back in a BIG way! As part of the 2015 NBA Cares Season of Giving, the Orlando Magic surprised a family during the Magic vs. Rockets matchup on December 23. On October 27, 1988, STUFF literally burst onto the scene when a large egg was discovered in front of the old Amway Arena. No one is sure where it came from or how it arrived in Orlando. Witnesses, however, reported a giant explosion followed by a shower of deflated basketballs, Orlando Magic bumper stickers, and puffs of green smoke. The oversized green dragon that emerged from the commotion had no idea of the impact he would soon have on "The City Beautiful."

Now in his 28th season, STUFF is one of the most recognizable mascots in professional sports. STUFF prides himself as the Orlando Magic's number one fan, and he relishes his role as the team "funny guy." Whether seen rolling down the stairs, performing a comedic dance routine with the Magic Dancers, shooting his patented backwards half-court shot, or perhaps throwing a cake in the face of an unsuspecting fan from another team, STUFF seldom seems to slow down his pace. Although unpredictable at times, his comedic timing and impromptu style is guaranteed to bring a smile to the faces of fans both young and old.

Our lovable dragon STUFF took his fame to new heights in 2014. After a game-time decision to propose to supermodel Kate Upton, STUFF was seen on several media outlets and was even discussed on TMZ. That wasn't enough for the big green guy. STUFF delivered a dance-off challenge to Hashtag, the mascot of the "Tonight Show with Jimmy Fallon." While the show was visiting Orlando on June 18, 2014, STUFF and Hashtag battled it out in an epic dance-off on national television. The result was a tie. In March of 2015, STUFF made ESPN's Top Ten Plays with his dangerous and exciting backflip dunk off a 16-foot ladder. STUFF was also named the NBA's Mascot of the Year for 2015-16.

For more information on "Orlando's Mascot" or to book him for an event, check out www.stuffthemagicmascot.com or follow him on Twitter and Instagram (@STUFFMagic). If you are interested in having STUFF add some "magic" to your next event or birthday party, contact his Booking Manager, Spencer Sage, at 407.916.2671 or email stuff@orlandomagic.com.

He served as head coach for the Detroit Pistons (1979-80), Dallas Mavericks (1989-90 to 1992-93) and Orlando, leading his teams to the NBA Playoffs twice. He also served as an assistant coach for New York, Detroit, Dallas, Cleveland and Orlando. Adubato is also the only head coach in history to lead teams to the playoffs in both the NBA and the WNBA.

Adubato spent 18 years as a high school and college coach in New Jersey, compiling an overall record of 290-85 (.773). Ironically, one high school player he coached at Our Lady of the Valley High School (Orange, N.J.) in 1964 and 1965 was former Magic Head Coach Brian Hill. Adubato was named Pro Basketball Coach of the Year by the New Jersey Sports Writers Association in 2000 while with the Liberty.

Born in Irvington, N.J., Adubato earned undergraduate and graduate degrees, as well as doctoral credits, in administration from William Paterson University, where he captained both the basketball and baseball teams. Adubato was recently inducted into the William Patterson Hall of Fame for both sports. He married the former Carol Begerow in 1989. Adubato has one daughter, Beth, and two sons, Scott and Adam. Scott has coached in the NBA, WNBA and NCAA, and was drafted by Sacramento in 1987. Adam will graduate from Florida State University in December with degrees in business management and sport management. Beth obtained her doctorate from Rutgers University in criminal justice, and is currently a professor at New York Institute of Technology. He also has two grandchildren, Beth's daughter, Allegra and Scott's son, Sean.

AMWAY CENTER: TRULY LEGENDARY

FROM A VISION TO BLUEPRINTS TO REALITY

The Orlando Magic served as the developer of the downtown Amway Center, which competes to host major national events, concerts and family shows. The facility is owned and operated by the City of Orlando on behalf of the Central Florida community.

The Amway Center opened in 2010 and was designed to reflect the character of the community, meet the goals of the users and build on the legacy of sports and entertainment in Orlando.

The building's exterior features a modern blend of glass and metal materials, along with ever-changing graphics via a monumental wall along one façade. A 180-foot tall tower and spire serves as a beacon amid the downtown skyline.

2013 CUSTOMER SERVICE AWARD

The Amway Center was honored on June 6, 2013 with the Customer Experience Award during TheStadiumBusiness Awards presentation held in association with TheStadiumBusiness Summit in Manchester, England.

TheStadiumBusiness Summit is the largest dedicated meeting in the world of the owners, operators and developers of the world's leading stadiums, arenas and major sports venues. Previous recipients have included City Square/Etihad Stadium, Manchester City FC, Manchester, England (2012), The Family Area – Cardiff City FC, Cardiff, Wales (2011) and The O2 Arena, London, England (2010).

With the opening of the Amway Center in 2010, the Orlando Magic spearheaded a specialized customer service training program in conjunction with the Disney Institute for all Amway Center employees. Annually the initiative provides training to more than 2,000 employees.

The criteria for a Customer Experience Award nomination requires that the stadium, arena or major sports venue consistently deliver outstanding levels of service at every stage of the customer journey.

2012 FACILITY OF THE YEAR

At a sports industry annual awards ceremony on May 23, 2012, the Amway Center was named "Facility of the Year."

The announcement was made by Street & Smith's SportsBusiness Journal and SportsBusiness Daily at the prestigious Sports Business Awards in New York City, which annually recognizes excellence and outstanding achievement in the business of sports.

Amway Center served as host for the 2012 NBA All-Star Weekend in Orlando, culminating with the 61st NBA All-Star Game on Sunday, February 26. In a thrilling contest, the West defeated the East, 152-149. More than $95 million in economic impact in Orange County, Florida was generated from NBA All-Star Weekend, according to a study conducted by Strategic Marketing Services and SportsEconomics, LLC. In addition, the NBA All-Star Game at the Amway Center provided unprecedented exposure, as the contest was broadcast in 215 countries and territories in 47 different languages.

AMENITIES FOR ALL LEVELS OF TICKET BUYERS

The 875,000 square foot, Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certified building features a sustainable, environmentally-friendly design, unmatched technology, featuring 1,100 digital monitors, the tallest high-definition videoboard in an NBA venue and multiple premium amenities available to all patrons in the building.

Every level of ticket buyer has access to a number of premium amenities.

"It's a great day for Central Florida. History will look back on this day in the same light as the day that Walt Disney announced he was building his theme park in Orlando," Magic CEO Alex Martins said the night of the approval, July 26, 2007, adding: "I would like to thank Mayor Rich Crotty and Mayor Buddy Dyer, as well as both the County and City Commissions for their vision and leadership. I would also like to thank the Walt Disney World Company, Universal Orlando, SeaWorld, the Central Florida Hotel and Lodging Association, the Orlando/Orange County Convention and Visitors Bureau, as well as the entire Orlando tourism and business community for their active participation in ensuring this positive outcome for new downtown sports and entertainment facilities for the people who call Central Florida home."

The Magic were major financial participants in the public-private partnership - contributing $50 million toward construction of the Amway Center, $10 million toward the arts center, and $25 million toward construction of five community recreation centers. The Magic's other contributions toward operations, fundraising and financing push the team's total participation in the downtown venue projects to more than $150 million.

In a historic move, the Magic agreed that Amway Center would be designed and constructed to meet the certification criteria for an environmentally "green" building development standard.

"We want this facility to not only serve our community but to reflect our community's values," Martins said.

Populous, formerly HOK Sport, was selected as designer of the Amway Center. Hunt Construction group was selected as the construction manager. The official groundbreaking celebration was held July 25, 2008. The events center was named the Amway Center on August 5, 2008 and the building opened to the public for the first time on October 1, 2010.

Inside the arena, patrons will find modern amenities in a comfortable setting – ideal for hosting family events as well as basketball games. Concourses are spacious, offering unique concessions and activities for kids and adults alike. The Bud Light Baseline Bar on the main Terrace concourse overlooks the event floor, and children will enjoy spending time in the kid-oriented STUFF's Magic Castle and retail opportunities on the upper Promenade concourse.

"From the inside out, beginning to end we were committed to developing a world class venue that would bring a myriad of events that would appeal to the diverse taste of Central Florida residents," said Mayor Buddy Dyer. "Whether it's a child experiencing his or her first basketball game or two friends singing along at a concert, these are the shared experiences and memories that will be created at the Amway Center."

With 875,000 square feet of space, the Amway Center offers plenty of room to incorporate the modern day amenities found in most professional arenas of today, and seating is expandable to more than 20,000 seats to accommodate major national events.

The $380 million facility features eight levels, five public concourses, 37 restrooms, 55 concession points of sale, 60 suites, 68 loge boxes and 1,400 club seats. The Amway Center features up to 17 hospitality spaces for rental on a per event basis.

UNIQUELY ORLANDO

"We took a hard and long look at the essence of Orlando before coming up with a design that we believe reflects the best and most distinctive aspects of this community," said AIA, Populous Sport Senior Designer Brad Clark. "And just as importantly, the building will set a new standard in sustainable design as one of the greenest professional sports facilities in the country."

To celebrate Central Florida's moderate climate, the building is filled with a variety of indoor-outdoor spaces. Once guests enter the voluminous, 80-foot-tall Disney Atrium main lobby, they are able to return to the outdoors via the Terrace Level bar area overlooking Church Street.

The arena was designed to respond to its distinct urban setting while revealing the activities occurring within. Bounded by Church Street, Hughey Avenue, South Street and Division Avenue, the arena's primary entrance faces north to Church Street, creating a natural extension of the nearby downtown entertainment core. The Church Street entry features a large public entry plaza connecting the arena's spacious entry lobby.

"In designing the community's new center we feel we created the framework for a facility that will be the catalyst for economic revitalization in downtown's west side, while establishing a flexible design that will serve as a great home and attract the nation's premier events," added the Magic's Martins. "The building has a design unique to Orlando, while providing a framework for environmental sustainability."

JOBS IN A TOUGH ECONOMY

The massive construction project served as a boon to the local construction business in a time when jobs were scarce because of the sharp downturn of the nation's economy.

The Magic and City of Orlando worked closely with local minority and women-owned businesses — some of which were based out of the nearby Parramore community — awarding them with more than 30 percent of the contracts totaling $90-plus million, exceeding the 24 percent benchmark established by the City of Orlando.

Of the 170-plus minority and women-owned firms which worked to construct the facility, 61 were African-American-owned firms, 52 women-owned firms, 37 Hispanic-owned firms, 22 Asian-American-owned firms and two Native-American-owned firms.

ENVIRONMENTALLY-FRIENDLY

Sustainable design and construction specifics focused on the opportunities to create an environmentally-friendly building in various categories. Among them: providing water efficiency; optimizing energy and atmosphere protection; conserving materials and resources; monitoring indoor environmental quality and health; selecting environmentally preferred operations and maintenance.

These elements combine to create one of the most environmentally-friendly, high-performing professional arenas in the country and the first NBA arena which was originally designed and constructed to be Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certified.

MOST TECHNOLOGICALLY-ADVANCED BUILDING IN NORTH AMERICA

The arena has more than 1,100 screens of high-definition content via Internet Protocol Television and a state-of-the-art digital signage network which maximizes fan engagement and interaction, distributes an unprecedented amount of patron information, as well as providing unlimited opportunities for advertisers and sponsors.

The Daktronics center-hung scoreboard alone includes four primary high definition LED video displays with 840 lines of resolution, eight auxiliary video/scoring/statistics displays and two LED ring displays. The venue is the first in the world to utilize high resolution 6 mm surface mount LED pixel technology on all of the center-hung digital displays. More than 9 million individual LEDs are used in the 18 displays incorporated into the center-hung scoreboard. Overall dimensions of the center-hung scoreboard are 42 feet by 41 feet by 41 feet (HxWxD), making it the tallest and most capable of any in NBA venues. Complementing the primary scoreboard are two LED ribbon boards mounted on the interior fascia of the seating decks.

The bigger size, flexibility and advanced technology allows Orlando to attract bigger concerts, major political conventions and compete for more major sporting events such as conference and NCAA tournaments.

``We've designed a facility that has so many built-in amenities for every level of ticket-buyer," Martins said. ``So many of these buildings in the past have been designed where a lot of the amenities have focused only on the premium ticket-buyer, the courtside seat holder or the club seat holder. But here with the new Amway Center, we have bars, restaurants and clubs on every level for every ticket-buyer; and that's for Magic games and every event. So it really is a building that has a high level of amenity for everybody."

"Over the past three years, we have focused on revitalizing the Parramore neighborhood and have experienced a resurgence in our downtown," said Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer as the design for the building was unveiled on December 11, 2007. "Today marks another important day in our efforts, as the facility takes shape with the design unveiling of this new landmark…a landmark that will be a gathering place for all of Orlando and Central Florida."

SPORTS AND ENTERTAINMENT DISTRICT

In an effort to further the revitalization of downtown Orlando and Parramore and centralize their staff, the Orlando Magic got the go-ahead on June 23, 2014 from City Council to invest $200-plus million into a project that will create jobs and provide dining, retail, hotel and entertainment options.

Following a 120-day investigation period and a study of the Orlando Sports and Entertainment District that is designed to sustain itself year-round, City Council unanimously approved (by a 7-0 vote) SED Development, LLC – a sister company of the Magic – to construct a state-of-the art complex next to the Amway Center. The mixed-used venue will feature a corporate headquarters for the Magic that will bring more than 100 more employees into downtown. Later phases will have a full-service hotel, conference center and residential and retail facilities.

"Like with the Amway Center, this has been several years of planning and working with the City to find the right avenue to add another great piece that will add to the core of downtown," Magic CEO Alex Martins said after the vote. "So it's incredibly exciting to get to the approval stage. Now, the real work begins in planning for construction. It's going to be a long project and from start to finish we're probably looking at five-to-six years. But we're very excited to get started."

Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer called the project "extremely exciting" during the City Council meeting and District 6 Commissioner Samuel B. Ings lauded the Magic for their hard work in coming up with the plans for the mixed-used facility.

The design firm of RTKL helped to formulate the renderings, and that's significant because RTKL is credited with the visions for L.A. Live next to Staples Center in Los Angeles, Victory Park near American Airlines Arena in Dallas, The Kansas City Power and Light District next to the Sprint Center, Berlin Live and a World Cup venue in Brazil. RTKL's mission is to make the complex near the Amway Center "uniquely Orlando" and it will likely host music events, cultural events, holiday events, public gatherings, pre- and postgame celebrations and smaller events such as farmers' markets. Flexibility of the space will be of the utmost importance.

In the spring of 2014, City Council unanimously approved the sale of land across the street from the Amway Center to the Magic for $12.7 million. That cleared the way for the Magic to move forward on designing the 650,000-square-foot complex. The land is located north of Church Street, east of Division Street, south of Central and west of Hughey Ave.

Construction of the entertainment complex will further enhance the Magic's expanding footprint in downtown Orlando. The city-owned, Magic-designed Amway Center, where the Magic have played their home games since 2010, has been widely hailed as one of the finest sports facilities in North America. It was named the 2012 Sports Facility of the Year by the SportsBusiness Journal. The dazzling facility also allowed Orlando to play host to the 2012 NBA All-Star Game. Orlando Mayor

Buddy Dyer has taken great pride in the success of the Amway Center, hailing it as "the envy of everyone in the NBA and the envy of everyone around the country."

"We've been talking for about 10 years now about trying to create a new downtown for Orlando and what these venues can do to create economic development and spur other mixed-use development. Because of the recession, it never happened," Martins said. "So this is the opportunity to get it really started and be the spark. Hopefully, this is just the beginning. Hopefully there will be other developments that pop up and revitalize downtown so that locals want to live and work and play and eat and be entertained."

The first step in the transformation of the land was the demolition of the parking garage which started in July, 2016. That demolition will allow for construction to begin on a new office building that will serve as the corporate headquarters for the Magic. Presently, almost two-thirds of the Magic's employees work 14 miles to the northeast at the RDV Sportsplex near Maitland, and the organization is planning to consolidate its entire operation in one facility.

The Magic's major investment also continues their efforts in the revitalization of downtown Orlando and the Parramore neighborhood. The Magic and the Parramore community have long been partners in helping the citizens of that region. The Magic have given more than $1 million to the Parramore community while also donating thousands of community service hours, building nine reading and learning centers and two playgrounds and also providing hundreds of backpacks with school supplies.

"When I specifically think about the Magic's impact to Parramore, they've made donations for playground equipment and they've volunteered time with the players and staff to spend time with kids. And with the Parramore Kidz Zone, they've made major contributions there and they've continued to support that through the years," Allie Braswell, former CEO of the Central Florida Urban League, said. "The Magic are so much more than just a basketball team; they are a part of our community. They're continuously embracing our whole community and looking for ways to give back, whether it's through donations of money, time, resources or talent. The Magic have been a cornerstone of this community."

Martins is proud that the Magic have been able to broaden their footprint downtown so that they can be catalysts for the area. Martins is also extremely proud that the Magic will continue to be leaders in the growth and development of Parramore.

"It's our neighborhood and it's important to us that we continue to help revitalize it," Martins said of Parramore. "We think this is another step. Hopefully this is a spark for others to invest in that part of downtown. Downtown really stretches from Orange Avenue to the Citrus Bowl. So this is an opportunity to spark the western side of that stretch."

The OMYF is committed to helping children in Central Florida realize their full potential, especially those most at-risk, by supporting nonprofit organizations offering youth-based programs in the areas of education, housing/homelessness and health and wellness that promote healthy living practices for at-risk children and families. In addition, over the years, the Magic and their foundations have awarded nearly $500,000 in scholarships to 62 students from the Central Florida area.
